PATRICIA A. DIACOVO

Dear Patty,

I really don't know what to say to someone I've known since freshman year. It has really been great knowing you these past 4 years. Don't forget all the great times we had even though we hated this school. Remember our freshman homeroom with Miss Pugh. I hope that you and Jimmy last forever you make such a lovely couple. You are always invited to my house. So you better come. Ok. I don't think of anything else to think. but I think about it tonight.

Love and God Bless You

THE CLAYMORE

5th Edition

Published By
The 1965 Senior Class
of
Governor Livingston Regional High School
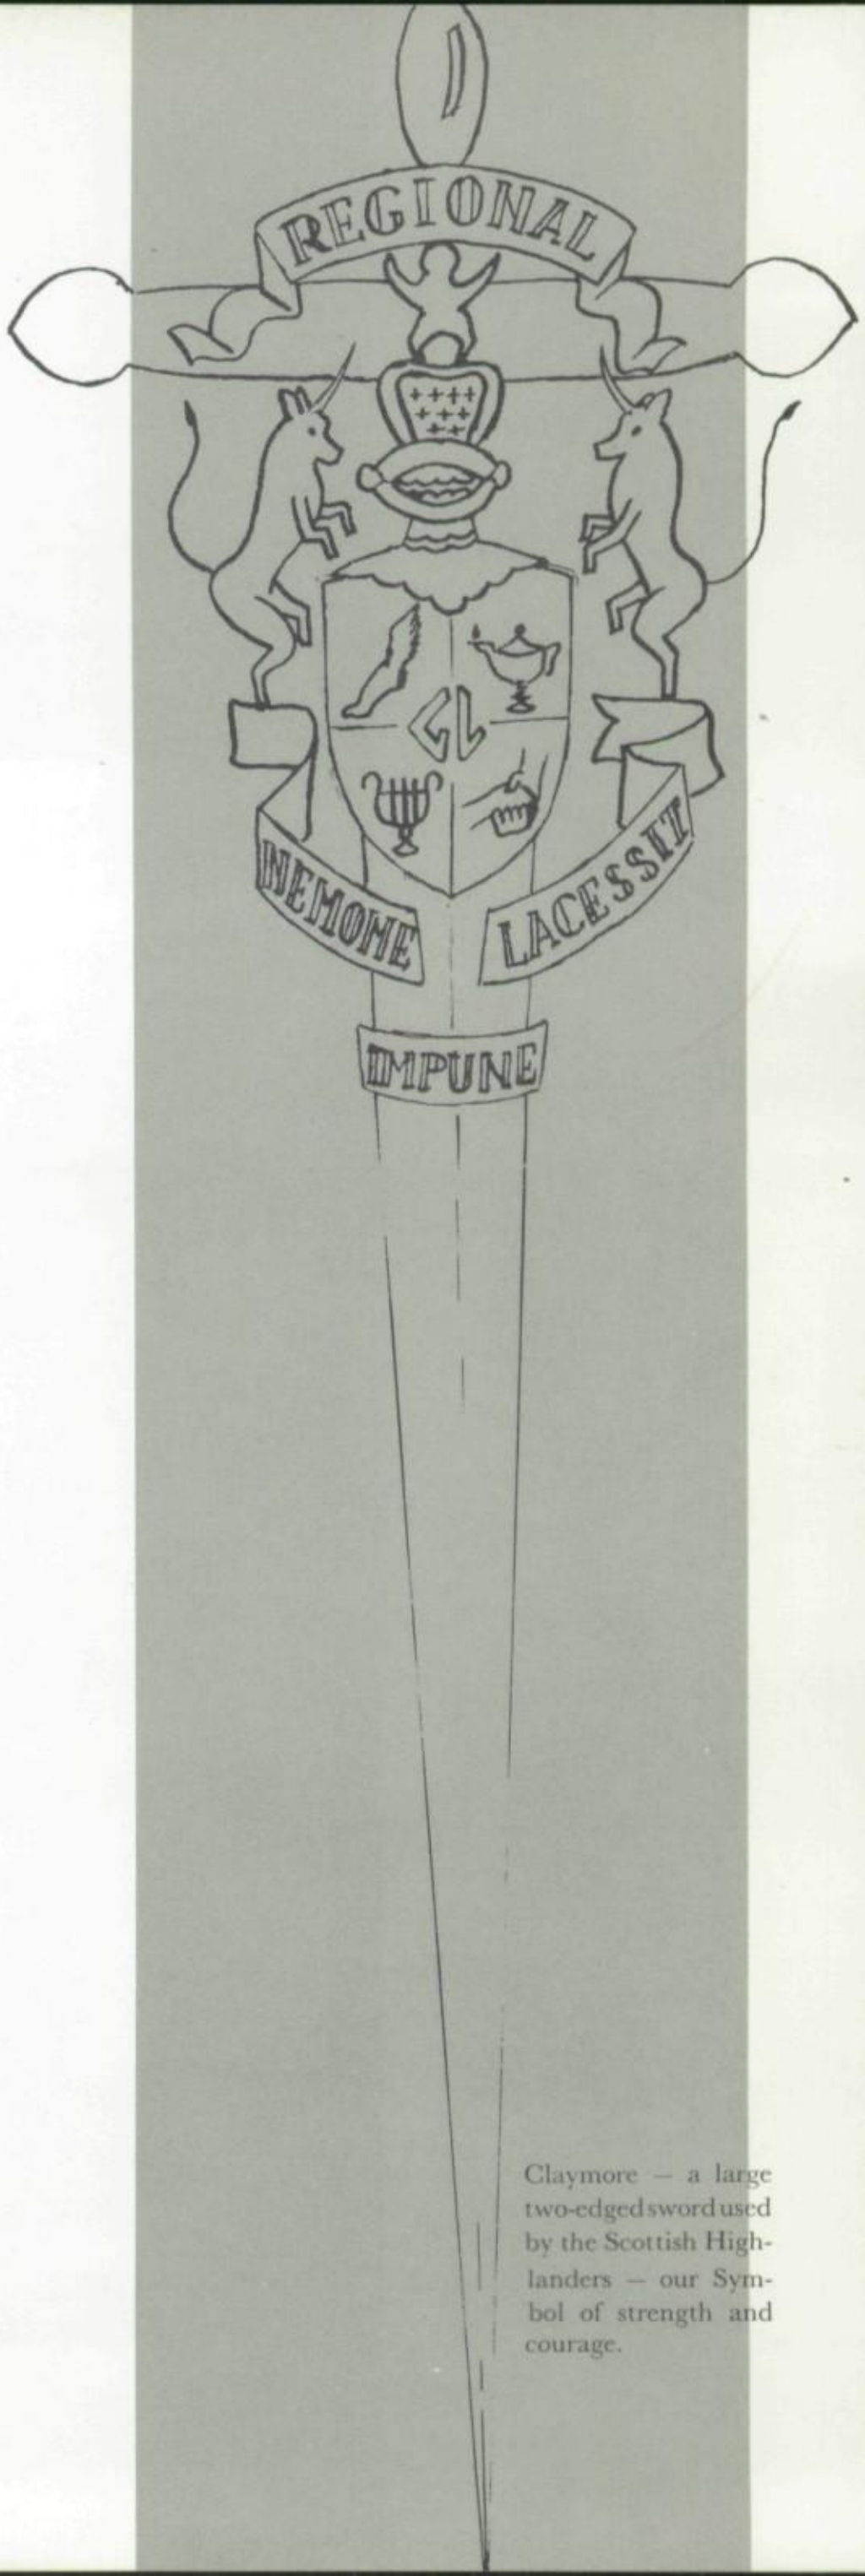
Berkeley Heights, New Jersey
Mr. Frederick Aho — Principal

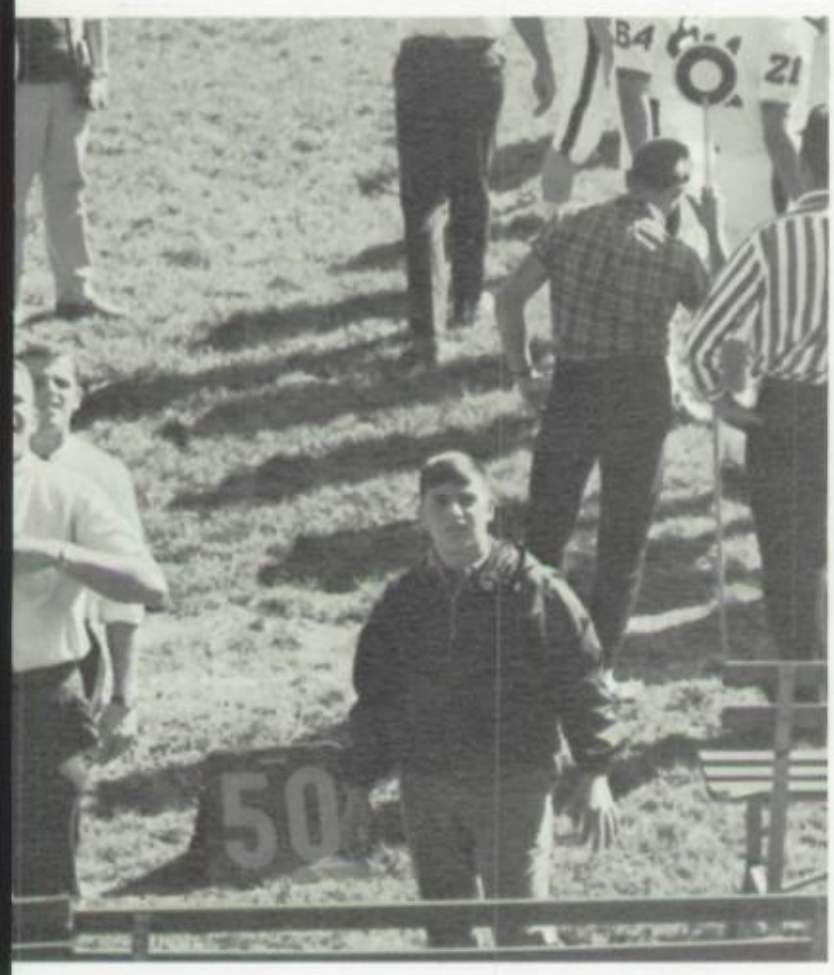


Claymore — a large two-edged sword used by the Scottish Highlanders — our Symbol of strength and courage.

Dedication

As quaking freshmen we first knew you, Mr. Sands, in FAC and World History — a teacher of energy, stimulation, and humor. On crisp autumn afternoons we met you on the football field — the king-sized coach who boomed directions, encouragements, and sometimes -%-#'- ! On icy cold mornings we heard you as the inevitable voice over the PA system announcing, "Homeroom teachers! A bus from Mountainside has just arrived . . ."

We also knew you as "Teddy Bear Sands, Terror of the Basketball Court" in the annual student-faculty game. And we knew you as the lavish dispenser of green, pink, and yellow slips eventually destined for the circular file. We knew and will remember the fine teacher, coach, and attendance administrator and his personal contributions to our life at GLRHS.



Foreword

Look to this day,
For it is life,
The very life of life.
In its brief course lie all
The realities and verities of existence.
The bliss of growth.
The splendor of action
The glory of power.

For yesterday is but a dream
And tomorrow is only a vision
But today, well-lived,
Makes every yesterday a dream of happiness
And every tomorrow a vision of hope.
Look well, therefore, to this day.

Not really upstairs, but here in our school is located the nerve center of the entire regional system. Every man, from Dr. Warren M. Davis, our superintendent, to each board member, helps control Governor Livingston. Activities include planning the budget, coordinating the curriculums of the three regional schools, and keeping us one of the best high schools in the country. Mr. Frederick Aho, our very able principal, is a man of integrity and foresight. Assistant principal B. Benjamin Merrill's success lay in his understanding of the problems of the faculty and student body. We owe a great deal to these great people.

clined."

Alexander Pope

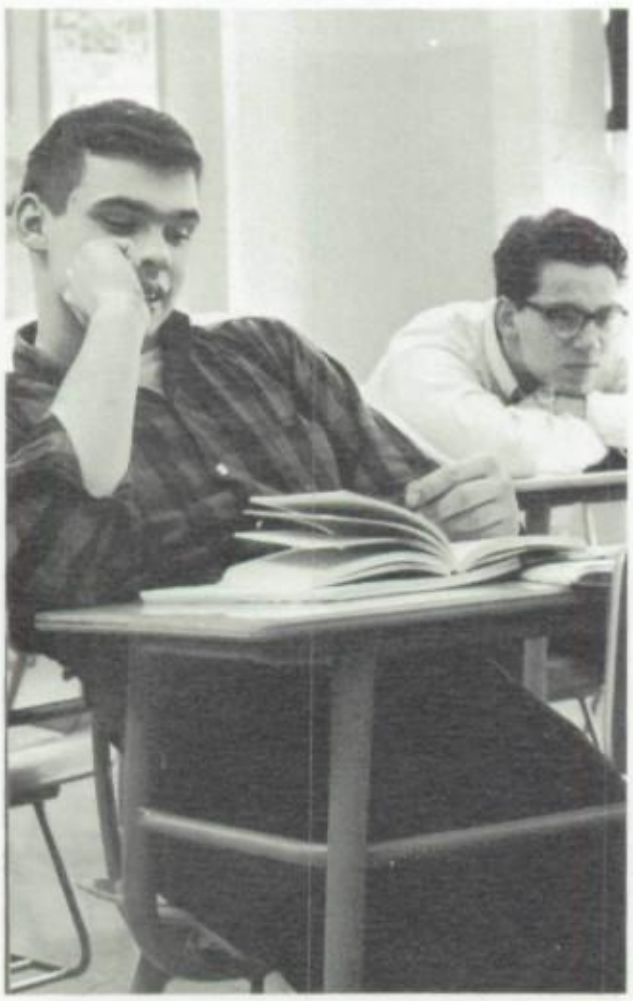
R. Freiermuth, E. Ford, J. Powell.

Seven hours of every day eighty talented people try to lead 1,500 students along the path of knowledge. Often the side streets seem more inviting. During the seven periods of the day, students suffer various problems, which, of course, are not their own faults. First period, no one is awake. Mid-morning droop sets in during the second or third period, and hunger pangs during fourth. Fifth period brings the realization of how fast lunch really goes. Mid-afternoon droop claims sixth period, and seventh is just too close to 3:05. This year, however, 334 diplomas will prove that the faculty found a way.

Far Eastern love poetry is not an integral part of our English program, but the school's largest academic section strives to keep its program varied, one way or another. Trips to McCarter Theater always attract large numbers of students. Mr. Aho still isn't sure whether the quality of the plays or the prospect of an afternoon off is the cause.

Although betting is illegal, any social studies student who has Mr. Burdge will give good odds that someday he'll knock over his lectern. What other school can boast an assistant principal with Civil War history as his hobby? The favorite question around social studies classes is "Is there a movie today?"

Who cares if we speak French with a New Jersey accent? Only our language staff will ever know. These people blend culture and grammar to acquaint us with the world outside our borders. We can always picture some poor teacher staying late into the afternoon to put up an imaginative bulletin board in International Hall. The language lab remains to this day a complex more delicate than an IBM computer.



B. Huising, L. Hegarty.

The numbers racket takes on a new meaning with the math department. SMSG versus traditional math may well be the battle of the century. But multiplicative inverse or common reciprocal, all are studied with equal vigor. Mr. Rosamilia's drawings should be saved for posterity, and Mr. Neddoff's two sided figure, the ancient doagon, will survive as a modern concept.

Formaldehyde is the perfume of the lab and its aroma often embraces our entire top floor. Science is probably the most dangerous teaching assignment. This brave staff keeps watch over the crop of young scientists as they probe the inside of a defenseless worm, mix a pungent chemical potion or study a bobbing spring. Finally, they tirelessly clean up broken test tubes and dead dry cells at the end of the day.

Early modern sword of Scandinavia.

Magazines, Toys and Chilly Weath

Under the capable advisership of Mr. Harold Burdge, the Student Council undertook a number of worthwhile projects, and encouraged student participation in Council activities. The first dance of the year was held outside in the upper parking lot. Despite near freezing temperatures, everyone had a grand time.

A not so successful magazine drive took up most of October. Funds raised from this project were put in the treasury to cover Council expenses for this year and next, including a large donation to the Highlander Bagpipe Band.

The whole school got in the Christmas spirit when the Council sponsored a Toy Drive for underprivileged children. The hundreds of toys brought in topped any expectations that the Council officers had.

Basically the year was spent revising old rules and setting up new ones to make a more effective Council in future years.

Capturing the moods of the student body and events of the school year, the Claymore staff, under the capable leadership of Mrs. Pepi Herbst, directed their efforts toward a yearbook of depth and quality. Howard Bimson, Sue Winans, and the rest of the editorial board introduced a number of innovations including an expanded academics section. The development of techniques in cropping pictures, making layouts, and devising headlines supplemented the usual typing and clerical work done by the staff. The annual ritual of taking pictures of the various clubs and organizations at GL and the task of identifying the people involved in these activities was another facet of yearbook work.

Mr. Richard Lawall of the American Yearbook Company and Mr. Ronald Golcher of the Davron Studios also deserve much credit. Special thanks go to Lenore Langheinz, our cover designer. Without her help, this book would not exist.

EDITOR'S NOTES

IF FOUND, A REWARD

GUEST EDITORIAL

LOST: Appreciation, fair play and self respect, somewhere in the bustle of growing up and competition. First noticed missing along with the absence of library books. Such events as "mocking out" serious elections and selections, and an apathy toward anything to do with school, support the fact that the above stated elements have been lost.

Misplacement most likely happened during the students' change of concept on what really is important. At one time, the importance was on doing those things which would make one self respected; now it is on doing those things which oppose.

POSSIBLE WAY OF RECOVERING THE LOST ITEMS: A change to a school where there is a library consisting of no more books than are presently found in one classroom at G.L., and so lending is not practiced. A school where there are patrols in the hallways, where there are no projects for which the school can be proud, and where there are no democratic elections, or the niceties of selections.

REWARD IF LOST ITEMS ARE RECOVERED: One thousand five-hundred students who are worthy of being respected. Marilynn Neal

Hats off to the students who made "Our Town" possible.

It was interesting to note what good imaginations can do with such a well-known play. With the addition of some clever costuming by a very capable costume committee, and talented acting, it wasn't difficult to find yourself sitting in Grover's Corners, New Hampshire.

Congratulations to Bob, Doug, Julie, and the rest of a fine cast for a flawless performance, and to Mr. Katz for taking the time and interest to guide them.

When the magazine drive ended several weeks ago, the hoped for goal of $15,000 worth of sales, $5,000 profit, fell $4,000 short, thus reducing the amount in the student council treasury to $3,000.

The loss will be felt: maybe not this year, but certainly within the next two school terms when money is needed to support activities, sports, buses, and projceds.

The fault of falling short of a goal is two-fold. This year, the council realizes how many more students we involved, and the possibility of having too many projects in one neighborhood.

But the biggest fault is with us: in student attitude. Whether it was apathy or mockery that kept us back is no longer important: there was enough of it present to effect the outcome of the drive,

The magazine drive is over. What matters now is a comeback. Endorse your student council by supporting it in future projects. There is a Christmas used toy drive for orphans pending on the council agenda. See what YOU can do to make it a success.

On the waves of a song, an enthusiastic audience was swept away to the South Pacific last year. Nellie Forbush, portrayed by Bette Neroda, was vibrant as she smiled and sang her way to stardom. An exceptional male cast headed by Gary Spivey and Doug Uhlig enhanced the professional atmosphere of the show. Unforgettable Linda Stewart provided more than just a touch of fun as Bloody Mary.

Palm trees turned to sage brush this year, and Bette and Doug became westernized for Annie Get Your Gun. Packed houses proved that this Irving Berlin fantasy is always a favorite. Hunter Birckhead, wild west show barker par excellance, badgered Allyn Shepard (his ambitious sister) and helped Jamie Caldwell and Cindy Rundlet (all they wanted to do was to get married). Across the country and throughout Europe the show traveled on the boards of GLRHS. When the make-up came off, though, the cast knew . . . "There's no business like show business"!

This year, under the direction of Mr. Bertram Katz, the Senior Class presented Our Town, by Thorton Wilder for their annual class production. The ambitious cast worked hard during weeks of vigorous rehearsals, and gave an exciting and memorable performance.

A popular, contemporary drama, Our Town succeeds in bringing the audience into the actual production through use of the narrator and because of the unique construction of the play.

Mr. Brown at work.

Notes float through the air several times a day, and the sound comes from Mr. Edward Brown's musical workshop. He often wishes he had a few more arms as he carries out his duties as head of the chorale, festival choir, concert choir, and beginning chorus. His biggest job, of course, is to coordinate the music programs of the three regional high schools. His excellent direction was shown during Annie Get Your Gun.

The singing groups have also been active this year. They sent members to All-State Chorus, presented two excellent vocal programs, and attended a performance at the Met. Their sound of music brings much credit to G.L.R.H.S.

Don't wrap it, bag it. S. Doba, S. Bergvall.

"Drums in my heart are drummin'
I hear the bagpipes hummin' . . ."
No longer are these just words to the Highlander Song. This year, the long awaited bagpipe band finally became reality. At first it seemed just a dream, but more and more people began to believe that it could be done.
Under the instruction of Mr. Harrison, Wendy Thomas, now pipe major, and thirteen other girls learned to play the symbol of the Scots. They made their first appearance on Thanksgiving. Since then requests to perform have flooded in, and in the future, they will carry the name of "Governor Livingston" far and wide.

Sousa and Bach receive equal billing from the Governor Livingston Highlander Band. The band and various connected groups including the dance band, bag pipes, twirlers, and color guard work hard all year. Under the direction of Mr. Forrest Bartlett, the band performs in local and county parades, as well as in various school functions and assemblies.

As the fall season comes to a close, the band members relinquish their marching uniforms and begin making preparations for the Pops Concert and annual Spring Music Festival. The band officers of 1965 were Tony Manger, president; Winston Parker, vice-president; Nick Molinaro, secretary; and Sunny Horner. Student conductor, Joseph Car also aided Mr. Bartlett during the year.

"Band, forward march!" four whistles, and Marleen Kaechele strutted out at the head of the GLRHS band. The twirlers and color guard gave an immeasurable boost to the traditional Highlander spirit. Pepping up pep rallies and parades, the girls performed with practiced confidence.

This year, a new twist came to twirling as Marleen and Carolyn Schnorr, head of the color guard, did routines to modern music. The girls always acted as a spearhead of friendship for us, and by half time they knew the twirlers of the visiting bands. Of course, by the end of the football season every girl knew the cheers as well as the cheerleaders, and had the Highland fling well learned.

Candlelight, flowers, and robes all help to add that special touch at National Honor Society inductions. Twice a year, senior and junior students receive the highest honor of the school. The society also holds a book sale each year that keeps its treasury in the black. The most familiar duty of the members though, is to deliver the New York Times each day; the print wears off their hand by second period. The activities of the club are directed by Mr. C. Robinson.

The Debate Club concentrates on National Forensic League procedures. Membership in N.F.L. is granted as recognition to students for achievement in the field of speech and debate. Here, parliamentary procedure and debate technique is stressed. The debate team visits other schools for tournaments and congresses to debate the topic for the year: Resolved: that nuclear weapons should be controlled by an international organization.

Articles in the paper include interviews of teachers, math puzzles and problems, and a roving reporter section. Another highlight is the math honor roll, in which students gain recognition for superior work in math. A creative writing club headed by Miss J. Higgins in which students are able to express themselves through poems, essays and compositions is the Scribblers Club. During the year, this creative group published many of their works in the Scribbler's Pad, their own publication.

The club is basically a service organization sponsered by the local Kiwanis Club, and its jobs include running a coat check at school functions. In their off-hours, they schedule dinners, fishing trips, and guest speakers. Mr. R. Duggan and Mr. J. Neddoff share the supervision.

Blue shirts, red hats and an abundance of school spirit are all a part of being a member of the Pep Club. The organization was formed to raise school spirit in general by bringing a block of students to each athletic game. The chief prerequisite for membership is a loud voice. Mr. R. Romance, Relativity and Rorscha

The French and Spanish Clubs at GL. offered language students an opportunity to broaden their knowledge of the peoples and cultures of France and Spain respectively, while an appreciation of the contributions of Roman culture was emphasized in Latin Club.

Numerous programs, demonstrations and festivities highlighted the activities of these groups. The Latin Club sponsored a Saturnalia Party in December, a cake sale on the Ides of March, and a trip to the Metropolitan Musuem of Art, as well as the annual Roman Banquet in May. The Spanish Club sponsored a Pan American dinner and visited Bambergers in Newark to see an exhibit of Spanish art. A variety of refreshments as well as various forms of entertainment added atmosphere to Tuesday afternoon meetings.

Velocity, acceleration, and wave interference are given a chance to prove themselves during the afternoons that the physics club meets. Chief physicist, Mr. John Faubl, and the members spend their time working on experiments, listening to guest speakers, and planning trips to nearby labs. Their goal is to create interest in the field of physics.

The purpose of the psychology club is to further its studies beyond the classroom. Under the excellent direction of Mr. John Stein, members attend seminars, do psychological studies, hear guest speakers, and form discussion groups on related topics. Officers for this year were: President, Richard Banach; Secretary, Joy Ramsey.

Enthusiastic League basketball players

Sponsoring a variety of fall, winter, and spring sports, the Girls' Athletic Association attracted the sports minded highland lassies.

Basketball, volleyball, soccer and hockey activities are implimented by teams of girls with great abilities. The senior girls' hockey team went undefeated in five games, with Sue Winans scoring 10 field goals. Rugged competition from sister schools Jonathon Dayton and Arthur L. Johnson sparked Wednesday afternoon basketball games as the class teams clawed their way through the season. Long hours of practice paid off for the archers who placed well in the state tournament.

The Leaders Club is a service organization that provides an opportunity for girls to further their leadership skills. The activities initiated by the Leaders Club include the officiating and coordinating of all extracurricular sports throughout the year.

The mother and daughter tea and the Pops Picnic in the spring are the two big social functions sponsored by this organization. The Tea is sponsored by the G.A.A.: during the Christmas season. Volunteers from study halls made the Santa invitations. The highlight of the tea was the announcement of newly accepted Leaders Club members and the presentation of 'Twas the Night Before Christmas." Nobody will forget Sue Winans as Santa Claus. The narrator was Sue Smith. Margo Chamberlain, Pat Simms, Paula Hunchar and Sally Geddis were sugar plums. Santa's reindeer were Adrienne Giacobbe, Pat Bamberger, Lynn Van Voorhies, Carol Cross, Marilynn Neal, Linda Lonsburg and Jill Baranoski. The mother and father were Joan Garton and Daryle Schriewer. Jane Opdyke and Linda Duke were the cat and dog. The toys were Judy Williams, Diane Savoy and Helen Scheidecker. Nancy Goering and Michele Surger were the children.

Major fund raising activities are the cake sale and selling of totebags. Money raised by the club is used for a scholarship which is awarded to a senior girl.

Mr. B. Benjamin Merrill

In Memoriam

It is difficult to be a disciplinarian for high school teenagers. This was Mr. Merrill's job. And yet he was interested in much, much more. We know him as the man who tied up the loose ends, the functions students don't realize exist, but which insure a school's running well. One spoke to Mr. Merrill about a special problem or plan. His judgment on requests was always fair and generous. He quietly, leniently gave us opportunities to assert our maturity. His enthusiasm for Governor Livingston was openly expressed at many times in many ways: at football games, recognition assemblies, and class meetings. But his personal warmth, tempered with adult astuteness, stemmed from a strong love of kids.

Editors' Note

The sword is tarnished, but the steel is still strong.

The Claymore is not only the story of the year, but the product of our good intentions, high hopes, angry outbursts and hysterical moments. We have lived the days of the all-too-soon deadline . . . have studied until our eyelids slid low . . . have enjoyed the last dance . . . have received the diplomas . . . have written "Good Luck" a hundred times . . . May this book reflect to you a very real and important world we have known for four year of our lives.

Jimmie and Eddie go away. I guess we'll both be crying together.
Please lets always stay as close as we are now. You have a bright future a head of you.
Best of everything God Bless you.

Joyce (Peanut)

Patty,
You are a very sweet
girl + I will never forget
you or your sweet innocent ways. Good Luck with Jimmy. Love Stephanie

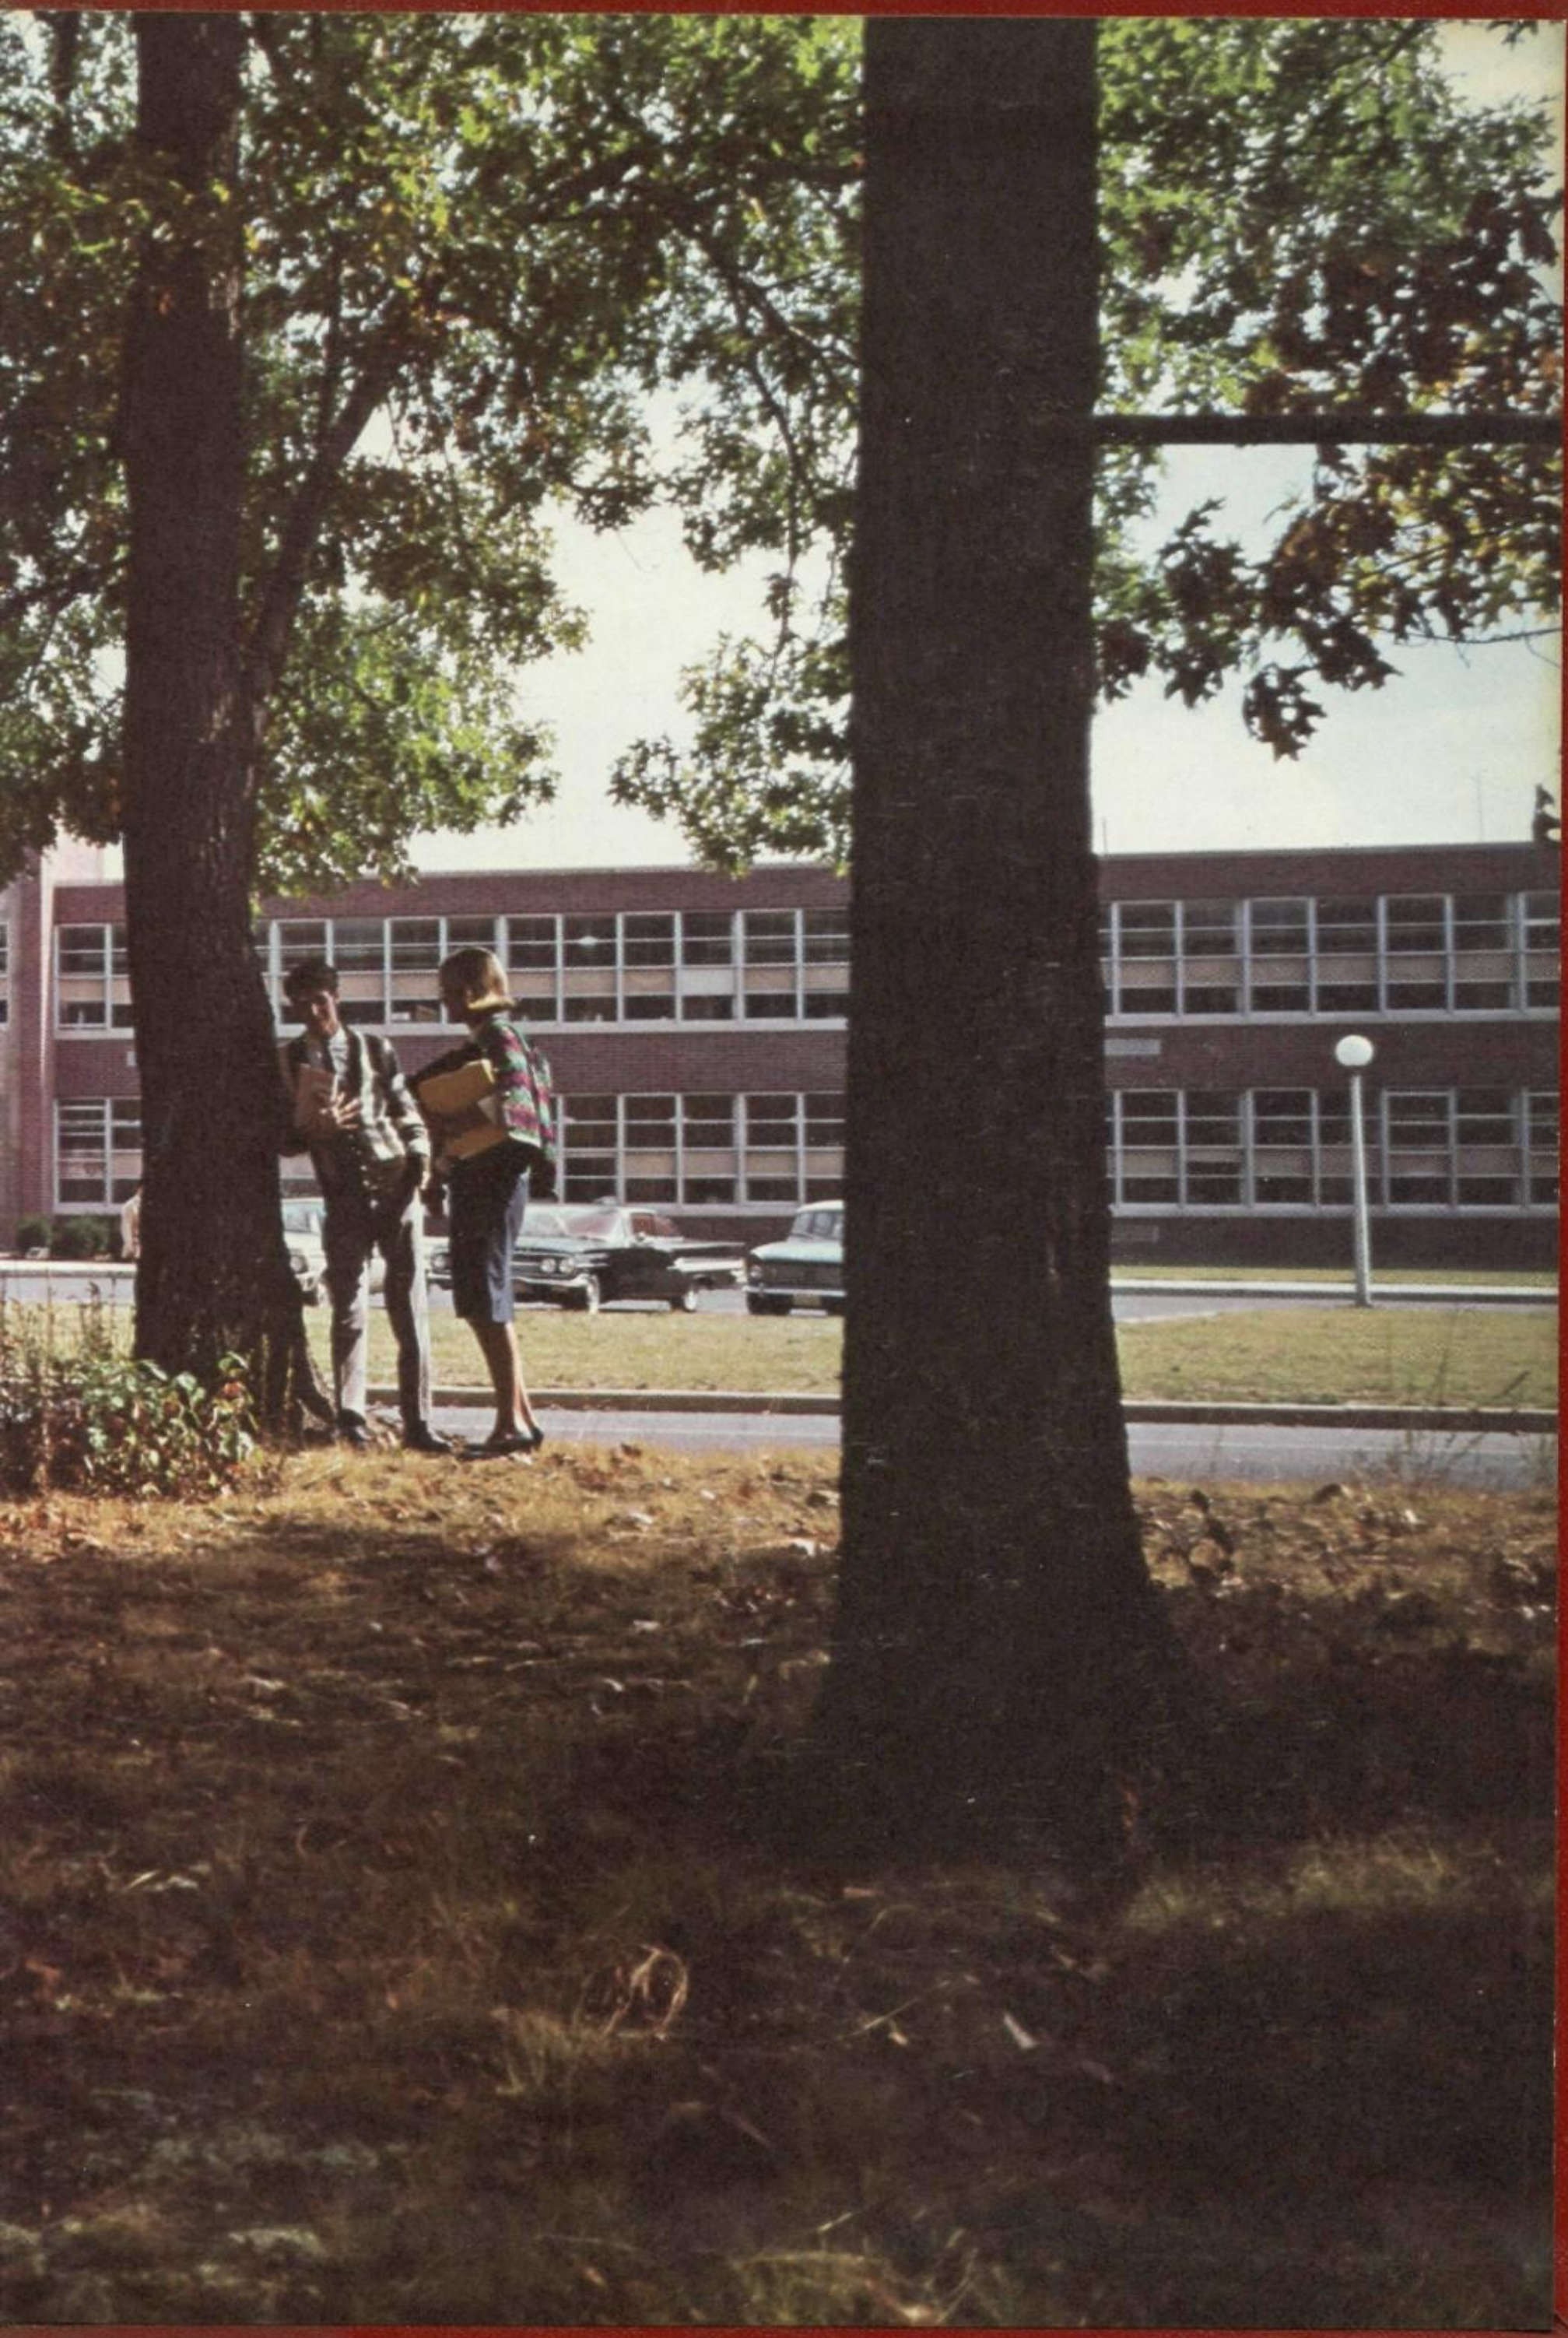
Dear Chink,

I'm writing here because you won't let me cover up my face. I guess it's cause you love me! Right?! Right

Now I guess I have to write something nice! Too bad! All kidding aside, I wish you all the luck and happiness in the world. You're one of the greatest friends I ever had and we've had a lot of fun together. I'm gonna take good care of your gym suit, it's hanging on my wall (no kidding) in my bedroom. Be nice to your puppies & remember Mrs. Story.

Love (yes)


Gail
